

www.greystonesvet.ie

What is wrong with a bit of padding?

Dogs and cats which are overweight or obese will have increased stresses placed on the heart, lungs, liver, kidneys and joints. That extra padding can therefore cause joint damage, respiratory problems, lead to diabetes mellitus, limit the ability to exercise, increase anaesthetic risks and in general lessen your dogs quality of life.

You need to remember that keeping your dogs weight under control will essentially allow a better quality longer life. We stock foods and supplements which will help. Our nursing staff will be happy to check your pet's weight and give advice on weight control free of charge.

Here are some of the products we stock which will help

appetite control supplements

'Reduct-aid' assists weight loss by means of appetite supression (based on natural palm & oat oils) & low calorie treats

Prescription food:

For weight loss in overweight cats and dogs

Prescription food:
For control of weight gain in cats and dogs